SECTION 1. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, its successors and assigns (herein referred to as "Telephone Company") shall continue to operate its telephone system and all business incidental to or connected with the conducting of a telephone business and system in the City of Hope, State of Arkansas, (herein referred to as "City"). The plant construction and appurtenances used in or incident to the giving of telephone service and to the maintenance of a telephone business and system by the Telephone Company in said City shall remain as now constructed, subject to such changes as may be considered necessary by the City in the exercise of its inherent powers and by the Telephone Company in the conduct of its business, and said Telephone Company shall continue to exercise its right to place, remove, construct and reconstruct, extend and maintain its said plant and appurtenances as the business and purpose for which it is or may be incorporated may from time to time require, along, across, on, over, through, above and under all the public streets, avenues, alleys, and the public grounds and places within the limits of said City, as the same from time to time may be established.

THE BOOKS' ALMOST BALANCE—Uncle Sam, it turns out, isn't too far in the red after all. True, the national debt is a whopping 276 billion dollars but, as of last June, federal agencies owned land, buildings and other items worth 282 billion. Map, top, illustrates how much real estate the government owns throughout the world. Put together, it would total all land east of the Mississippi River plus Arizona, California and Oregon. The debt comes out to $1,572 for each man, woman and child in the country compared to $1,493 credit (see drawing, lower right). Graph, lower left, shows how the government's assets have grown in the last few years. They include some 67 billion in real estate and 195 billion in personal property.

Oil Industry Asks State to Share Cost

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas oil industry last night asked the state to share the cost of complying with an order to cease disposing of salt water wastes in southwest Arkansas streams.

A House conservation committee approved the request by recommending passage of a bill to give oil producers who install underground disposal systems relief from some state severance taxes. Producers have been given five years to cease polluting streams principally the Ouachita River, by the Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission.

A delegation from southwest Arkansas told the committee cost of installing disposal systems would put many operators out of business — would, indeed, result in closing more than half the 1,917 affected wells.

Salt water is a by product of oil pumping. An average of 10-20 barrels of salt water comes up with every barrel of oil.

Union Rep. Chadd Durrett authored the approved bill which would permit oil operators who install or tie in to approved underground disposal systems to deduct the cost of such operation from severance taxes, the levy for removing natural resources.

Sen. Marshall Shackelford of El Dorado estimated such facilities would cost the industry 1½ million for original installation and $800,000 annually for maintenance. "This would force most of the small operators out of business unless they are granted some tax relief," Shackelford declared. "We're asking you to save a segment of the oil industry which contributes eight million dollars annually to the state's economy."

Durrett's bill would permit tax deduction only to the extent of cost of the disposal system. "The producers wouldn't make any money on this. They'd just break even," he said.

Lyman Ensley of El Dorado, representative of the McMillan Oil Co., said his firm had built a refinery at Norphlet to process oil produced in the area.

"We're interested in this bill because, if many operators are forced to close, our supply will be

Few Ideas on How to Make Life Better for All This Women's World We Dwell in

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Planter. How can life be made better for all in this woman's world we now dwell in?

Well, here's an idea for a start. Why not encourage the ladies to take up cigar smoking? In an era in which more and more value is placed on togetherness, the cigar remains one of the few symbols of apertness.

Women today talk like men, work like men, dress like men and drink like men. But very few—in this country, anyway—have learned to smoke like men.

So far, in their invasion of former masculine prerogatives, the cigar has defeated them. Slick a cigar in the average woman's kisser, and she doesn't know what to do with it. She looks a bit like an anteater trying to blow up a football.

But it is doubtful if fair womanhood will ever make a real movement of the equal rights movement, until the ladies master the art of smoking in a confident ease. Why don't more women take up cigar smoking? Well, not for the reasons they give. They say cigars are dirty and nasty, and smell up the draperies. They say cigars taste bad—a slander if ever there was one. There are few aromas in nature more delicate and pleasurable than a puff of smoke from a fine cigar. Havana.

Many women with a connoisseur's palate for the finer joys of life have discovered this. They range from "Poker Alice," the lady gambler of the Western frontier, to postess Amy Lowell, who was the very spirit of New England. The Italian actress, Anna Magnani, is among the noted feminine cigar smokers of today.

But you will note one pertinent thing about these three ladies—they are all talented, strong-minded decisive women. Herein may lie the real key to the mystery of why so many women avoid cigars, or openly attack them. At the risk of alienating the unenlightened addicts of other forms of nicotine, I'd like to point out the basic superiority of the cigar smoker over both the cigarette and the pipe smoker.

Your typical cigarette smoker is often nervous and indecisive. Your typical pipe man is a life-beat philosopher sending up smoke signals of futility.

But your typical cigar smoker is an expansive, aggressive, forceful optimist—a man of action, forthright and decisive. I give you, for example, U. S. Grant, Gen. George S. Patton and Winston Churchill.

The man who smokes cigars is a man who can make up his mind. This, I submit, is why so few threatened," he said. Rep. Jim Pomeroy of El Dorado said the House was responsible for the plight of oil operators today.

"Thirty years ago, we passed a water pollution control bill, but it was never enforced. Many operators, counting on non-enforcement, went into business with limited funds. Enforcement now without some tax relief would wipe them out," Pomeroy said.

Shackelford said the measure would cost the state some $627,500 in lost severance taxes during the five years the system was being installed. But he said an annual gain of $50,000 in taxes after the system was operating would wipe out the loss in 15 years.

"It's like the state was lending these operators money to stay in business," he said.

Pomeroy said workers would be needed to install and maintain the disposal system and the state would get a large portion of its tax money back immediately in other forms of revenue such as income, sales and personal property tax because of the creation of new jobs.

women today smoke cigars. They aren't the kind of people who really like to make up their mind. And mark my word now—the day American women stop kidding around and really shoulder the responsibility of running the country will be the day after they all bite the end off a stogie, clamp it in their jaws and order the nearest male, "Light me, little man!"

Alford Offers Bill Aimed at High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.) elected on a strong segregation platform, took aim at the U. S. Supreme Court and the South's school problems in his first House speech yesterday.

Alford also introduced his first bill, H. R. 11, dealing with the Supreme Court and school racial issues to curb the powers of the Supreme Court, is similar to a measure which passed the House last year and failed by one vote in the Senate.

"Alford said it would give the states the right to govern themselves, protect their laws and their peoples."

Remarks by Rep. Noah Mason (R-Ill.) brought on Alford's speech. "Mason criticized the Supreme Court for what he termed its trend to the left," and Alford asked him if there wasn't "definite evidence that subversive activity is at the base of the root of our school problems in the South."

Mason said he had heard this and was inclined to believe it.

Then Alford declared: "May I call attention to the fact that there is evidence that there are individuals in the country today who are more interested in creating mass agitation, setting one social group against another, than they are in the welfare of a minority. Also I would like to go on record as approving all of the remarks that the gentleman has just made here today."

Alford then asked Mason if he didn't feel the "Warren-dominated Supreme Court is in fact a third body of the legislature and has usurped the power of this distinguished body."

Mason said he did, and that the

Huge ICBM Is Fired Over the Atlantic

By JACK KING

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80 foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching. The mission on this 10th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip winding up in minutes beyond the island of Fernando de Noronha far off the Brazil coast.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation the latest blastoff signaled another shot similar to last month's Atlas satellite. But there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous flights the bulky intercontinental range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory—even the "Big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Alford then added he agreed with a talk he'd hear in the House recently relative to the visit to the United States by Russian Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

"I think," Alford said, "it is definitely significant that we should become more concerned about the welfare of Mikoyan when he is in our country that we are about loyal Americans today who are sincere in their desire to work out these problems for the good of all America."

St. Johns to Get Test on Road Trip

By BEN OLAN

The St. John's basketball team prepared to embark on team tour today on the first leg of a three-game road trip which, if successful, would likely move the Redmen up in the national college rankings and insure them of a spot in either the National Invitation or NCAA tournaments.

The seventh-ranked Redmen meet the St. Louis Billikens in St. Louis Thursday night, Chicago Loyola in Chicago Saturday and Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind. Monday.

"It's going to be a rough trip," said Joe Lapchick, veteran St. John's mentor. St. John's, winner of the ECAC Holiday Festival Tourney, has won 12 and lost 1.

The Billikens, ranked 15th in the latest Associated Press poll, have won 11 games and 21 lost to top-rated Kentucky and Cincinnati, No. 5.

None of the top 10 teams saw action on Tuesday nights sparse program. Oklahoma City, ranked No. 14, trounced Regis 98-79, South Carolina defeated Furman 78-69, Louisville State edged Loyola of New Orleans 70-68 and Duquesne topped St. Francis (NY) 87-50.

Oklahoma City hit 41 of 66 field goal attempts. The Chiefs took charge midway in the first half and led by 15 at the intermission. Regis finished strong but couldn't make up the earlier deficit.

Casey Blasts Players Who Don't Hustle

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—High above the swank shops of Fifth Avenue, the New York Yankees maintain a tidy office. You get dizzy when you look down from the 12th floor. When Casey Stengel is there you get dizzy without looking out the window.

Casey was there Tuesday talking about baseball salaries, players with "bad watches" you can't tell the time at midnight, men who don't run out fly balls and others who get tired running 90 feet.

Long after the cheese cake was gone and most of the newsmen had left old Casey was going on and on.

He lined up with the front office in its salary squabble with the players and warned some of his men to improve their training habits—or else.

"I think some of them don't like it here," he said. "One of these days a big moving van will back up. One or two will get hit right on the butt."

There was more of the same on many subjects. Before the last dazed listener broke away, Casey touched on these matters:

Running to first base: "If you get tired running 90 feet you're gonna get fined. Some will get their first plater."

Letting ball players sleep in the morning after a night game: "You don't lose games resting."

Curfew: "There has to be a certain time. The night isn't all yours."

Trades: "If you can make deals to get (Jackie) Jensen and (Gus) Triandos, get 'em. I'd like 'em back. The commissioner probably will call up and tell me I'm tampering, but two or three other managers come in here and talk about my players."

Would Make Polio Shots Compulsory
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House today passed, 84 to 9, a bill requiring polio shots for school children.

Sponsor of the measure was Pulaski Rep. Willie Oates. If it becomes law, the bill will require school children to present a physician's certificate showing they have been inoculated against polio before they can enter any public or private school.

Exempted from the measure would be any child whose physical condition does not permit inoculation, or any child whose parents object to inoculation on religious grounds.

Mrs. Oates said the bill would help eliminate polio in the same way similar legislation has practically wiped out smallpox in school children.

Two lawmakers opposed the bill. Poinsett Rep. W. H. Thompson said he was opposed to forcing inoculation of any kind and Lawrence Rep. Paul Graham said he objected to legal control over medical matters.

Goes Ahead on Plan for Big Title Fight

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The promoter of the off-again, on-again Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship bout went ahead with his plans today but he was in the position of fellow wondering when the roof would cave in.

Bill Rosenzohn, the promoter, said bravely he saw no obstacles in the way of the fight and that contracts should be signed "by Thursday."

"But while he stood in the center of the stage, there were various side men milling around in the wings:

1. Eddie Macen, a heavyweight stopped by Johansson not long ago is seeking a federal court order to keep Ingemar, the European champion from fighting Patterson before he gets a rematch.

2. London promoter Harry Love says he has a title fight between Patterson and Brian London of England all wrapped up, and said he received a cable from Patterson's manager imploring him to have patience.

3. London "I am overjoyed at this big chance," he said.

4. Gus D'Amato, Patterson manager, who has been holding all the cards is annoyed that Love's release his private correspondence.

5. Johansson, the party of the second part, says he made no return match agreements with Macen, and furthermore, Eddie can get at the end of the line if he wants another fight.

Rosenzohn professes to be aloof from such goings on.

"The best legal opinion I have been able to get tells me it will be next to impossible for Macen to enjoin Johansson from fighting," he said. "It will not interfere, slow, deter or in any way affect my plans."

Matter of FACT

When the Romans built a town, they left a level, rectangular space in the middle for the forum. Small towns had only one forum, large towns several. The famous forum of Rome, the Forum Romanum, was an oblong, flat space about 200 yards long and 30 to 60 yards wide between the Palatine and Capitoline hills. Hay grows today in the Forum Romanum.

MAKING LIKE A SUBMARINE—This 11-foot device moves like a sub, dives like a sub and sounds like a sub. It's a new Navy sub target or decoy. Developed in Cleveland, Ohio, the cigar-shaped object faithfully executes maneuvers programmed beforehand. Reproducing propeller, machinery and other sub noises, it provides air and fleet units with an inexpensive and tame "enemy submarine" for training purposes. The decoy can execute up to six hours of tactical maneuvers.

ESCAPING GRAVITY—The weightlessness of outer space is experienced by reporter Doug Walker, left, and photographer Bob Doty at Wright Air Development Center in Dayton, Ohio. Zero gravity was reproduced in the 25 by 8-foot cabin of a two-engine Conqair for 10 to 15 seconds by executing a complicated maneuver. The plane was flying at 10,000 feet. The pair floated, coasted and flipped—all with a feeling of perfect security.

THE STORY: Because Gil Yeager is rallying small ranchers to oppose the cattle combine, Duke Royale suggests to Meade Bastian that Gil be eliminated.

Chapter XV

Yeager looked at Trezevant. "This for you, all of you. And for Gene Hickerson and Pete Blalock and Hans Ogaard, if they were here."

Neither Swayze or Trezevant said anything more. They merely waited, eyeing him without expression.

"There are," said Yeager quietly, "people who for some reason seem to feel it was mainly my fault the land and cattle combine was able to move in and take over on the Summit Prairie. Just why that should be, I don't know, for I was only one among several

Book Relates Facts About Communism

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—If a pink-cheeked dude asked you to become a Communist, what would you do?

Give three cheers for the red, white and blue, and then toss a tomato at him? Shudder awhile, sweat, and then run and hide?

"Talk turkey," is what you should do, say Harry and Bonaro Overstreet, husband and wife authors of a new book, "What We Must Know About Communism."

By "talk turkey" the two mean: Invite the "salesman" to get down to brass tacks in a no-holds-barred debate about Communism. For example, ask:

"If the party's so 'good for the people,' why is it that fewer than seven million of Russia's 200 million 'citizens' belong?"

Know The Facts

If you know the facts about Communism, according to the Overstreets, you can chime in while he tries to answer, saying: "You know darn well the 'people' can't join. If they could, it wouldn't be pure Communism anymore. The creators of the 'people's party' said a powerful few million should lead covering

"Why should I go out on a limb for you? What did you ever do for me?"

"Why, nothing at all, Yeager said. 'No, sir, Harry - not a thing. So well just leave you out of the picture.'

Swayze fixed a narrowed glance on the fire. "Now there's a thing a man's got to think on. Should we try and drive completely out of this part of the country? He picked up a twig and tossed it into the fire.

"Hereabouts," he went on, a deeply troubled man slowly picking his troubled thoughts, "the good grass is on the prairie, around the lake where we were before. Yet to get back there means an all-out fight, and a pretty desperate one against big odds. And a man would be a fool if he stepped into something like that without some kind of plan. Maybe you got one? Swayze's glance lifted and touched Yeager.

Yeager nodded. "First move would be to get a foothold again on this side the lake."

"Where would that be?"

"My old Lazy Y headquarters."

Harry Plume laughed scoffingly. "Except for the old Patrick range, the combine doesn't legally own a single acre of Summit Prairie grass. They're holding it purely on the basis of the old argument that possession constitutes nine points of the law. How to get them off? There are two ways. One would be taking our claims to court. But while we've an honest man in Judge Carmody now on the bench, we'd be faced with litigation we couldn't afford to pay for."

"We can use the possession idea ourselves. We move in, quick and quiet, grab a chunk of range and sit tight. That leaves the next move up to the combine. They don't dare take their claim to an honest court because they have no legal leg to stand on. The only way they can move us is by force. They do that, they're outside the law because we'll be defending land legally our own. If we get together on a deal like that—and stick together—we can make it mighty tough for them."

Miracle Is Performed by Murrow Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Good conversation on the television screen is extraordinary. Good TV conversation by three or four persons removed thousands of miles from each other seems slightly miraculous.

A steadily increasing audience is enjoying the small miracle of such conversational exchanges conducted by Edward R. Murrow on "Small World"—CBS-TV, Sundays, 6 p.m. EST.

How is this wizardry worked? Palmer William, associate producer of "Small World" patiently tried to make the method clear to my technically obtuse mind.

The half-hour programs you watch and hear are on sound film, meticulously edited down from conversations of 90 minutes to two hours in length and held a week or so previously. All participants are linked by long distance telephone lines. A sound cameraman is operating his camera in front of each constantly.

On "Small World," extraordinary pains are taken—usually involving many hours—to establish "pure" telephone lines, free of interruption, static and echo. The voices are amplified until each speaker can catch others nuances of tone clearly.

Murrow, in New York controls all cameras, as a director does. The Overstreets said, there's a bonus involved. You'll re-discover how very precious are the freedoms Americans have.

on a movie set. After pure phone lines are firmly set and everyone is in his place, he goes around the circuit. "New York ready?" "Portland ready?" "Tulsa ready?" "New Delhi ready?"

Upon receiving affirmative replies from each technician, he says, "We'll start the cameras in 10 seconds." This each cameraman is ready to shot when Murrow starts the conversational ball rolling in New York.

After 10 to 11 minutes, he is speaking. "Please retain that thought while we re-load the cameras." This interruption is later edited out, of course. After a brief pause, Murrow checks around the circuit again and the sound film resumes.

All film is flown to New York where technicians begin the painstaking job of synchronizing and editing.

Sees Nuclear War Lasting 3 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay told Congress today an all-out nuclear war would last only two or three days and be fought almost entirely by men in uniform when it began.

Under questioning, neither LeMay, vice chief of staff of the Air Force, nor other military chiefs would say they are satisfied with the number of men now in uniform.

Their testimony before the House Armed Services Committee led Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) to charge gag tactics by the Defense Department and President Eisenhower's administration. The military men wouldn't agree they were gagged.

The committee questioned the military leaders in connection with pending legislation to extend the draft law four years beyond its
